Homes are Tuscan inspired and offer all of the elegance and amenities that families are looking for today. Homes are available on one to five acre lots, many of which are perfect for the building of private stables as well. The community itself includes trail riding and walking paths, community parks as well as a fire pit for gathering with friends and family.

Cheval is the brainchild of Keith Paris. Paris searched for two years before locating the area in Mint Hill that would be perfect for his equestrian family. "I am excited to have the sales center open so that families can locate the perfect place to build their next home. Cheval ensures the convenience of the city, which is just minutes away, as well as the ability to live near other families that share in their same hobbies and dreams," says Keith Paris, who is a seasoned developer.

Located just minutes off I-485 and uptown Charlotte, you'll find the quiet community of Mint Hill. However, there's a lot going on in this community including the building of a new shopping center called the Bridges of Mint Hill as well as the development of the Cheval equestrian community. This community is perfect for those families who are looking for the ideal home location that can involve their other major love in life, their horses. Near Cheval, horse enthusiasts will love the fact that the privately-owned Joli Cheval Equestrian Center is conveniently located within the community and provides boarding and training services to horse owners. Even those families who just love nature or want a home with a large yard will enjoy the natural, country inspired lifestyle that Cheval offers.
